

APA Webcasts on Psychology Internship Development

In an effort to assist with the development and maintenance of APA-accredited internship programs, the APA Education Directorate through the APA Grants for Internships Program has produced a series of free webcasts, which can be viewed on-demand. There are seven videos available on the following topics; program data collection, required program documents, effective use of accreditation consultation for internship programs, program public materials, grants and other funding mechanisms for internships, and two on internship consortia. For further information and to view the webcasts go to the Psychology Internship Development Webcasts webpage.
